

Lara P. Tansug

Research Technologist | Chemical Engineering Student | Ottawa, ON

With a both Turkish and Canadian background, I am a student at the University of Ottawa and a researcher at Natural Resources Canada. One of my passions is nature, whether by gardening, painting landscapes, making topographic art, or working towards climate change mitigation by developing carbon capture technologies. I am also delighted to serve as a board member of CATWAO since 2022, helping organize events and fundraising to contribute in women's success. I am a firm believer that a strong sense of community is essential for a happy and socially responsible life, and I cannot think of a better way to build such a community than by bridging cultures!